About Me

Hello there! The name is Erin (or Ern or Iron or Irene... Long story) and I am graphic designer and motion graphics artist living on the east coast. I have the cliché background of doing art since I was a small child but for me, though, it took longer to make the jump and pursue this as a career. I've always brought this creative part of me into all things, be it jobs, relationships, or my own free time, so a career is the natural next step. I hope to grow with you!

Work Experience

2012-Current

The Home Depot

Office Clerk and Customer Service

In this role, I take on a diverse range of responsibilities. In addition to managing clerical tasks and overseeing cash handling, I am also responsible for hardware maintenance and serve as the designated "art" person. I have designed signage, created memos, developed visual tutorials for store staff, and completed two murals.

2010-Current

Freelance

Digital Illustrator

In addition to my primary work, I take on commission projects for clients. While the majority of my work focuses on digital illustration, I also have experience in website design, traditional art, paper design, and branding.
